PRODUCTS OR MACHINERY

Aachener Quarz-Glas Technologie Heinrich manufactures high-tech products from quartz glass, borosilicate glass and ceramics, which are characterized by their high precision and top quality. We produce above all high-value special components for a wide diversity of applications in industry and research, combining state-of-the-art technologies with the classic craft of glass working.

Quartz glass, borosilicate glass and ceramics: These materials are the basis of our high-tech company.

From them we manufacture products of the highest quality and precision. We combine the most modern manufacturing methods with the traditional craft of glass processing.

In close contact with science and research, along with our customers, we are constantly developing new products for different applications in the semiconductor industry, optoelectronics, medical technology, the sensor industry and the measurement and control technology.
